

Wealth Matters – July 2019

Don't be deterred by volatility

On screen:

Unsettled by the current market?

Don't be put off by the ups and downs

Volatility is part of the market

And while it brings risks, it also creates opportunities

For the last 10 years

Volatility has been muted

But over the last year

The market has become more turbulent

That may mean it's time to review your strategy

Some structured products can offer a different type of market exposure that is linked to volatility

That means those ups and downs can be turned into a personalised opportunity

And can also help build resilience in your portfolio.

To discuss your options in a volatile market, speak to your Relationship Manager or Investment Counsellor today.
